PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

March 27, 2019

Norco, Miller and UBTech, team up to support education for the workforce of today and tomorrow!

Roosevelt Utah area high school seniors had the honor of cutting a sheet metal ribbon marking the opening of the Uintah Basin Technical College's (UBTech) new welding technology building on Thursday, March 22.

Norco, in partnership with Miller Electric, is proud to support this 13,570-square foot, $4.5 million state-of-the-industry facility with scholarship funding, modern equipment and quality supplies to help them develop the skilled labor force of the future. The advantages of this partnership include the latest welding equipment, supplies and materials at reasonable rates along with access to industry professionals.

The UBTech welding program has a history of turning out students who claim top honors nationally as well as internationally with six students who attended the national Skills USA welding competition and another who placed fifth in the world, during a global competition in Abu Dhabi.

Norco, a family and employee owned business based in Boise, is one of a number of ESOP companies in Idaho. Norco lives by its mission statement "Serving You Better," with "You" referring to patients, customers, employees, vendors, and the communities Norco serves.

As the nation's largest privately owned medical, welding, safety and gas supplier, Norco currently operates four Utah branches in Vernal, Ogden, Salt Lake City, and a new location in Orem, along with more than 65 other branches in Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Nevada, and Wyoming.
